

A Rainy Day

Raindrops fall from the sky,
Splashing on the ground.
Pitter-patter, pitter-patter,
All around.

The streets are shiny,
The trees are green,
The flowers are happy,
It's a lovely scene.

We can jump in puddles,
And splash around,
On a rainy day,
There's so much to be found.

Rainbows appear,
With colors so bright,
A rainy day is such a delight.

So let's enjoy,
This special day,
The rain is here,
Let's go out and play!

- What do the raindrops do in the poem?

- How does the poet describe the streets in the poem?

- What can we do on a rainy day according to the poem?

- What appears in the sky when it rains according to the poem?

- What is the poet's suggestion at the end of the poem?
